Admission Statistics

• Graduate Programs are quite small; some admit only 2 - 4 students per year. For these, personal contact with the program director or potential mentor is highly recommended.

• Our largest program, the umbrella Graduate Program in Biomedical Sciences, typically accepts about 25% of applicants.

• For many programs, relevant work experience, especially in research, is a significant indicator to predict student success.
  o Undergraduates should aim to have research experience, e.g. in summer programs or by volunteering.
  o Such experience, and strong letters from supervisors, might be weighted more heavily than GPA (as long as ≥3).
Graduate College

For those not accepted:

1. Look at other OUHSC programs to see if there is a better fit
2. Find a job for a year in your area of interest and re-apply
3. For some programs, you should first identify a mentor who is willing and able to serve as your thesis/dissertation committee chair.

Research Experience!!!
"A strong applicant has a good GPA and a degree in the hard sciences with high grades in many of our recommended courses. A strong applicant will also have multiple research experiences in the biomedical sciences and a strong understanding of the rationale, experimentation, and findings of their research projects. While not all applicants will have high marks in all these categories, they do have an enthusiastic and motivated attitude towards research."
