

To: College of Allied Health
Date: March 19, 2020
Subject: Update on Course Delivery Spring 2020

Dear Students, Faculty, and Staff,

Our College is committed to protecting the health, safety, and well-being of our campus community. We have taken several steps to minimize congregation of faculty, staff, and students, and will continue to respond with your best interests in mind.

Effective immediately, all face-to-face lecture courses in the College of Allied Health (OKC and Tulsa campuses) will be offered in an online learning format for the rest of the Spring 2020 semester.

Each course instructor is responsible to determine their online approach to course delivery. They will continue to keep their office hours virtually and to be responsive to student concerns. Faculty will communicate course details directly with their students. Laboratory courses and clinical courses present a particular challenge, so please be patient as we work through these challenges.

The OUHSC campuses, both in OKC and in Tulsa, are open at this time. However, in order to follow social distancing practices, the College recommends that students minimize all visits to campus. Faculty and staff have been notified by their supervisors regarding telecommuting. Please try to conduct business via telephone, text, email, or Zoom, even if you are in the building.

Thank you all for your understanding and flexibility. Wash your hands, practice social distancing, avoid crowds, and take care of one another as we confront this unprecedented health crisis together.

I am so impressed with how patient, kind and understanding each of you has been toward each other during this distressing time. Hang in there.

Allen Knehans, PhD
Dean, College of Allied Health
Stuart C. Miller Professor of Allied Health
1200 N. Stonewall Avenue, Suite 3150
Oklahoma City, OK 73117-1215
405-271-2288